Nan-ping and one nm NE of Hsi-chin (Figure 1).

The storage area contains 40 road-served storage buildings ranging from 80 x 25 ft to 200 x 55 ft, with a total floor space of approximately 165,000 sq ft. One building has a transverse monitor roof, and one a ventilated roof. Two probable fire ponds were observed in the SE section of the area.

The shipping/receiving area contains 2 large, rail-served warehouse-type buildings and 5 support buildings. Unidentified material in open storage was observed between the 2 large buildings on photography of [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] was not present on photography of

The probable handling area contains 3 large buildings, 5 other associated buildings, and several stacks of unidentified material in open storage. Two buildings have been enlarged since the photography of [REDACTED] These buildings are probably used in packaging and crating the material stored at this site. An apparently abandoned storage area with 14 cleared areas is located on a road immediately SW of the area.

The support area contains 4 probable barracks [REDACTED] 105 x 25 ft, and two 75 x 25 ft, with 12,150 sq ft total floor space), one large, dormer-roofed, probable administration building, and 4 support buildings. Based on 33.6 sq ft per man, the probable barracks can accommodate 360 personnel.

A total of 72 trucks were observed throughout the area on photography of [REDACTED] but only 2 were observed on the photography of
